

DAVID GRECO

David Greco is Vice President for the Western Region of the Nonprofit Finance Fund (NFF). He is responsible for managing and overseeing delivery of the full suite of NFF's financial products and services on the West Coast market.

Previously, David served as Vice President of the Youth Leadership Institute helping to bring youth and adults together to create more just and sustainable communities, as well as Senior Marketing Manager at Jossey-Bass Publishers where he launched a new social leadership publishing line for nonprofits and individuals engaged in social change. He has served as the Corporate and Foundation Relations Manager for the National Wildlife Federation, and Director of Programs for the Horatio Alger Association working with economically disadvantaged youth. He earned his M.A. in Political Science from Villanova University and his B.S. in History & Politics from Drexel University.

David is active in the community with a number of nonprofit organizations including working on global development issues with the Full Circle Fund, cultivating food entrepreneurs with La Cocina, assisting high-potential low-income women who dream of business ownership with Women's Initiative, and encouraging energy efficiency with Energy/Climate Change Committee for the San Francisco Chapter of the Sierra Club.

Nonprofit Finance Fund (NFF) works to create a strong, well-capitalized, and durable nonprofit sector that connects money to mission effectively, supporting the highest aspirations and most generous impulses of people and communities.

We offer an integrated package of financial and advisory services, including loans, asset-building programs, intensive workshops, and strategic financial consulting to help nonprofit management understand the impact on their finances of management and program decisions. Since its inception, NFF has cumulatively lent over $290 million and leveraged $1 billion of capital investment on behalf of its nonprofit clients.
